

Amy Dale

Content and Communications Manager, Law Society of NSW

INNOVATION IN LAW

Stream Chair

About Amy Dale

Amy Dale is the Content and Communications Manager for the Law Society of NSW, and the Managing Editor of LSJ. She also co-hosts LSJ's podcast Just Chat. Amy has 15 years of experience as a journalist, including five years as News Corp Australia's Chief Court Reporter during which time her book on the murder trial of Simon Gittany was published by Penguin Random House. Prior to joining the Law Society, Amy worked as a Communications Director and Senior Policy Adviser for the NSW Government, specialising in social policy reform and the prevention of domestic violence and sexual assault. She has post-graduate degrees in law and publishing from the University of Sydney, including a masters in criminology.