ChatGPT: Opportunities and challenges for family lawyers

The implications of ChatGPT and the larger generative AI field in the legal sector are substantial, eliciting a mix of anticipation and apprehension. Our commitment as a company lies in cultivating technology with responsibility. In this compelling presentation, Australian legaltech pioneer, Stephen Foley, will explore the challenges and advancements he observes in this area and show how AI is being implemented in Disclosure Ready, a new product under development.

Stephen Foley, Founder and Managing Director, eBrief Ready

Stephen Foley is passionate about creating a smarter and more sustainable legal industry with improved access to justice. After 30 years of working around problems that solicitors and barristers face every day, he created the next generation of electronic briefing – eBrief Ready. The eBrief Ready platform provides a central and secure repository to share documents related to a legal matter with all invited parties, including the solicitor, barrister, and judge. Stephen is now developing a brand new product, Disclosure Ready, that will revolutionise client disclosure in family law matters.
