Session 3 – 12:00pm - 1:00pm

Remedies in commercial disputes

With reference to recent cases, this session will address complex issues that may arise in the identification and quantification of remedies in commercial disputes. Issues to be addressed include: potential pitfalls for plaintiffs in cases where liability and quantum are determined separately; the several liability of defaulting fiduciaries and third-party assistants or recipients; elections to be made between equitable compensation and an account of profits; and a plaintiff's ability to make different elections between those two remedies as against a defaulting fiduciary and as against a knowing assistant or knowing recipient.

Meet the speaker

The Honourable Justice Kate Williams, Supreme Court of New South Wales

The Honourable Justice Williams practised at the New South Wales Bar from 2001 until 2020, taking Silk in 2016. In April 2020, she was appointed as a Judge of the Supreme Court of New South Wales. Sitting in the Equity Division of the Court, Justice Williams has heard and determined a wide range of cases, including many commercial cases in the Corporations List, Commercial List, and Technology & Construction List.
