

Family Law

Friday 16 August 2024

Session 8 – 9:35am - 10:35am

The proposed new property regime: Principles and practicalities

This session will consider the proposed changes to the way that property settlements between separated couples are determined by the Court, under the Family Law Amendment Bill (No 2) 2023 (Cth). Presenter Eleanor Lau will examine the proposed principles the Court may consider when dividing property, including adjustments for family violence, debts and wastage, and the possible implications of the new regime.

Meet the speaker

Eleanor Lau, Partner, Lander & Rogers

Eleanor Lau is an Accredited Family Law Specialist who practises exclusively in family and relationship law. She assists clients in all areas of family law including property settlement, spousal maintenance, parenting matters, financial agreements, child support, and international family law matters. She is well-versed in advising clients across the spectrum of family law issues and has particular expertise in financial matters involving complex structures such as trusts, companies and partnerships, including in instances where assets are held both within Australia and overseas. Eleanor is also experienced in complex parenting matters, particularly in cases that cross international jurisdictions. She is a Fellow of the International Academy of Family Lawyers (IAFL), and a member of the Law Society of New South Wales Specialist Accreditation Family Law Advisory Committee.